SEND Information Report
January 2024

This SEND Information Report outlines information regarding the ways in which we provide support for all students with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND), in order to realise their full potential, make outstanding academic and personal progress and grow to be equipped for their future lives. Provision may change and develop over time. Children and young people's SEND are generally thought of in the following broad categories of need and support.

Communication and interaction	Autistic Spectrum Condition (ASC) – children are likely to have particular difficulties with social interaction, language, communication and imagination. Speech, Language and Communication Needs – children may have difficulty communicating with others because they find it hard to say what they want, understand what is being said to them or understand the social rules of communication.
Cognition and Learning	Some children may have difficulty learning and may learn at a slower pace than their peers even with differentiated work. Some children may have specific learning difficulties (SpLD) for example dyslexia, dyscalculia or dyspraxia.
Social, emotional and mental health	Some children may display challenging, disruptive or disturbing behaviour which may reflect underlying mental health difficulty such as anxiety, depression, substance misuse, self-harm or eating disorders. Other children may have other disorders such as attention deficit, hyperactivity or attachment.
Sensory and/or physical needs	Some children with vision impairment (VI) or hearing impairment (HI) or multi-sensory impairment (MSI) will require specialist support or equipment to access their learning.
